

Wittgensteinian Values: Philosophy, Religious Belief and Descriptivist Methodology (Avebury Series in Philosophy)

This work examines the self-renouncing dimension which Wittgensteinian philosophy subscribes to ethico-religious ideals. Wittgensteinian values are explored through a range of literary and cultural illustrations from Wittgenstein's own European milieu. The book also highlights an alternative model of self-renouncing faith, which has methodological implications for how a Wittgensteinian descriptivist approach should be carried out. Wittgensteinian assumptions about the nature of self-renunciation, the religious believers' orientation to the world and the place of the metaphysical in religion are among some of the elements that need to be reappraised.
